He was just returning from Nashville where he had been to hear Miss Sara Bernhardt, and concluded to take in this city also while sight-seeing. We regret that he did not stay long enough for us to take him over the city and show him the "elephant."

Miss Lina Lee Harris, class of 1880, has received the appointment of First Assistant in the Hopkinsville Graded School, having obtained the highest average at the recent examination of the sixteen applicants for positions in the same school. Miss Harris is a very bright, energetic, and competent young lady. We congratulate her upon her success, and the school upon its acquisition. [Our School Friend.]

The Russellville Herald-Enterprise mentions the marriage of Miss Mattie Long, of that town, to Mr. Thos. P. de Grassfield, of Franklin, Tenn., which took place on the 10th inst. Miss Long has relatives and friends in this city whom she visited a year or two ago, and during her stay here she made many friends who note in wishing her a long (no pun intended) life of happiness.

Bethel Female College.

Prof. Steinhagen opened his lecture Friday morning by alluding to affairs in Ireland. He then compared the past and present conditions of France, according to government, and also to the despotic rule of Germany. He referred to the marriage of the Baroness Burdette Courts. A plank walk is being constructed on William street between Main and Virginia streets. The need of the walk has long been felt.

HERE AND THERE.

There were 355 pupils in attendance at the public schools last week. Sheriff Brown is making a most efficient officer and is making friends everywhere and in all parties.

The snow Sunday night was a surprise to everybody. It came self winter will never end.

The post-office will be closed today as this is Washington's birthday. It that gentleman hadn't died he would be 147 years old to-day.

A slight change has taken place in the railroad time table. The accommodation leaves at 5:55 A. M. instead of 7:25 as formerly.

Judge Tyler, of Canton, has purchased Mr. E. B. Long's residence, on Clarksville street, and has moved to the city to live.

The Endowment rank of Knights of Pythias has changed its regular night of meeting from the first Thursday to the third Monday in each month.

Vaccination is the order of the day. The doctors are busy all the time and are no doubt reaping a rich harvest of shekels.

The trial of Jno. H. Overby, who was arrested here last fall for passing counterfeit money, will come up at Louisville, in the U. S. Court to-morrow.

The cross on the top of the cupola of the Baptist church was blown off by the storm the other day and has not yet been replaced.

The card of Dr. Wm. M. Fagan appears in this issue. He has moved his office to the room over Mr. E. W. Henderson's grocery. His many friends will be gratified to know that he has decided to remain here.

Steps are being taken to have a telephone exchange in this city. Subscriptions are now being taken and if thirty subscribers are obtained the necessary arrangements for establishing it will be begun at once. It will be a great convenience and should be had by all means.

The Endowment rank of the K. of P. Lodge, paid last week to the heirs of Judge J. O. Ellis, $3,000 and to the heirs of J. W. Winfree $2,000. Notwithstanding the standard of education is very rigid, this order is increasing in membership more rapidly than any other in the city.

In this issue appears an advertisement of Mr. J. M. Hipkins' Baner livery stable near the Princeton bridge. Mr. Hipkins has been in the livery business in this city for several years and keeps a livery, feed and sale stable first-class in every respect. Give him a trial.

A protracted meeting is in progress at the Second Presbyterian church conducted by the Pastor, Rev. J. C. Tate, assisted by Rev. W. D. Morton, of Morganfield, Ky. The meeting will continue morning and evening throughout the week.

The Bell boys were refused ball last Tuesday and both of them are now in jail. Their trial has been set for next Monday. Jno. Bell's attorneys are Messrs. Clark & Lauder, Wood & Wood, Boyd & Henry and J. W. McPherson, Messrs. Felton & Seavey will defend Frank Bell.

A telegram was received here Saturday evening saying that the negroes of Todd county were making strange threats and that it would be well enough for the friends of the Bell boys to be on the lookout. The guards were accordingly mustered and put on duty, but no sign of lynchery appeared. If there was ever any danger, it is past now and the excitement among the negroes has died down since they heard the evidence in the preliminary trial.

A meeting will be held at the Court house March 7th to discuss the best means of protection against railroad oppression. The meeting is in the hands of active wide awake men who mean business. The unjust discriminations have been borne in silence long enough and they call upon the people to speak out against further injustices. The meeting is not confined to any party, but members of all parties are invited to attend and pledge themselves to support no man for the legislature who will not accede to certain requirements.

By request, the following paragraph is copied from the Clarksville Chronicle:

At the meeting of the physicians held last week to establish a uniform rate of charges for medical and surgical services, it was also decided, that, inasmuch as the custom had grown up among our merchants and other business men of the city, of presenting and collecting their bills the first of every month, they would adopt the plan, and persons owing medical bills may hereafter expect to have them presented on the first of each month. This is a very good idea, and is nothing but what is just and right. Doctors cannot live any more than other men unless they receive just and prompt payment for their services. Be prepared to meet your doctors bill.

"I like your paper," said a gentleman who came in to renew his subscription the other day, "because it has been truthfully said of it, that no man who reads it regularly is eligible to sit on the jury in criminal cases in the county. I pay for the news and I want it and I take your paper because you give me the news from the whole county. Out in my neighborhood we all take it, and there is a regular scramble for it every Tuesday in nearly every family. The old folks can't do without it, the boys fight over it, the girls will have it and the children cry for it. Send it to me always. It is worth double what it costs." Such kind words as these are bright ones in the desert of editorial life.

Willie Hawley has become the "Satanic majesty," of this office, and will hereafter deliver the paper to city subscribers.

Circulars and posters announcing the coming of the "Hopkinsville Republican," are being circulated on the streets. It is to be published every Thursday morning by Geo. M. Cote. The publisher announces that he will be "cautious to his opponents," and furnish "information amusing to all classes." He also believes that "Kentucky is at heart Republican in sentiment, and that by the exercise of patience and perseverance that fact may be developed at an early day, perhaps at the next gubernatorial election." It is not announced when the paper will appear but Mr. Cote says he will come to stay.

Court Doings.

None of the important cases have come up yet.

In the case of Outlaw vs. Nixon the jury found for plaintiff $40.00.

Nixon had bought a horse twenty-six years ago from Outlaw, payable in a note, due at the latter's marriage. Outlaw married last year and brought suit and recovered about half the debt.

The trial of Leslie Major for killing J. M. Brown will come up next Thursday.

The Grand Jury found a bill against W. A. M. Brewer for the murder of Mason, at Crofton. He was committed to jail and his trial set for next Saturday.

AMUSEMENTS.

KATE CLAXTON.

This popular and talented actress played to a well filled house at Mozart Hall on last Thursday eve. She was supported throughout the play, by the best company that has ever visited our town.

Miss Claxton as "Louise" displayed that high talent for depicting misery, while in the hands of the terrible widow Frochard, and joy at finding her long lost sister, with which she seemed wedded to no one else can do it.

Miss Florence Elmore as Henriette was superb in her acting completely captivated the audience when ever she appeared. She is a most beautiful brunette and though not billed as the "star" yet she gained more praise for her acting than any other member of the troupe and she justly deserves the highest tribute that can be placed upon her as an actress of the highest type.

Mrs. Brutone as the widow Frochard did some splendid acting seeming to fully comprehend the character of the "old hag" whom she represented. The other characters were all well represented showing throughout that it was a strong company and well selected. Among the gentlemen Mr. Cogswell as Picard deserves special mention, his grotesque attitudes and manners completely convulsed his audience with laughter when ever he appeared. We think it by far the best troupe that has ever visited our city, and should the company appear here again it will be greeted by a full house.

The people of Hopkinsville will be delighted to know that the charming little actress, Miss Julia A. Hunt will be here again soon. The date has not been definitely settled but she will probably visit us about the 7th and 8th prox. Those who saw her last fall will not fail to see her again. It is seldom that an actress makes a success, financially, the first appearance here as our people will patronize none but good companies. Miss Hunt gained many friends and admirers when here before and she should be greeted this time with a rousing big house, as she doubtless will be.

LEXINGTON.

Circuit Court is now in session with a docket of two hundred cases. The candidates for county offices are beginning to make their appearance in Fayette. Lexington seems to be at this time the center of political contest to the blue grass country.

An effort is being made to connect by telephone this city with Paris, Georgetown, Versailles, Nicholasville and Winchester. Last night one hundred and fifty subscribers to her telephone, who pay $30 per year for its use.

The A. and M. College has two hundred and seventeen students.

At a meeting of the Paris, Georgetown and Frankfort, and the Port and Big Sandy railroads, the two companies were consolidated, and arrangements were made to build a road from Frankfort to the Virginia line.

Lexington is about to overdo Journalism with her three daily and three weekly papers. The Blue Grass Banner was started a short time since by Ben Deering formerly editor of a Frankfort daily.

There is a great complaint of the scarcity of feed in this county. Hay and corn are selling at very extravagant prices.

The A. and M. Cadets and Lexington Guards will celebrate Washington's birthday, at Jackson's Hall, by a dress parade and speaking.

The people of this county have made a very flattering call on Col. W. C. F. Beckwith, to make the race for the State Senate. All are anxiously awaiting his decision in the matter, which has not been made public at this writing. Ooo thing, however, is certain, that should he consent to make the race he would recolve a hearty support.

Y. M. McCalfe, of Hopkinsville, was here yesterday, on route to Mt. Sterling.

Mr. L. W. Coleman offers the Henderson Reporter for sale at half price. This is surprising as it is one of the best and most prosperous papers, to all appearances, in the State.

Obituary.

Died, at her home near Garretttsburg, Ky., on Feb. 10th, 1881, Mrs. E. J. Sims, in the sixtieth year of her age.

She was born in Madison county, Ky., April 4th, 1821, and lived there till the year 1834, when her father, Geo. W. Fox, moved with his family to Christian county, Ky. She became a member of the Baptist Church in the 14th year of her age, and on January 8th, 1841, was united in marriage to Mr. A. G. Sims.

Mrs. Sims was a woman of many remarkable qualities, striking in their contrast, yet evenly blending as the colors in a beautiful painting. She had strong convictions on all questions; yet was ever ready to sacrifice her views to the opinions of others. She had great firmness and decision of character, yet was always willing to heed the counsel of her friends.

She possessed quick discernment and was generally correct in her judgment of mankind. She was open and frank in all of her dealings with her fellow creatures, yet always pitied rather than condemned deceit in those around her. Of a kind and amiable disposition, she was ever ready to help the poor and the distressed, and to uphold him by cheering words, to console and sustain him by her prayers.

As a mother she was kind, gentle and loving. She was the comfort of her children at all times, in health or in sickness, in joy or in sorrow, and was alike to them friend, counselor and advisor, lavishing upon them the untold wealth of a mother's love; for their sakes she deemed no sacrifice too great to be made, no privation too severe to be endured. From her children she derived an exalted pleasure in the hearts of her children, a strong, and abiding love of truth, honor and integrity; she tried to impress upon their minds those principles of virtue and morality which she wished them to follow, and to her children she was an example worthy of their constant imitation.

As a friend she was thoughtful and considerate, continually striving to contribute to the happiness of those around her, while she entirely disregarded her own comfort or convenience. She was always willing to lend a helping hand to those in distress, and her purity of character and noble aims were a constant example to all who knew her.

From the commencement of her sickness she knew that she couldn't recover, yet the terrible realization of this fact gave her no pain; death for her had no terrors; she faced the grim monster without a shudder. She died in the arms of her children and she died joyfully conscious of possessing God's love and happy in the blessed hope of an eternal reward beyond the grave.

MAEDONIA.

Ordinary mules are selling for from 75 to 100 dollars.

I have just started two wagon loads of mules and buttermilk. My mind can boast as much as he please I will live with him on the egg question.

Mr. Samuel Butler cut his foot very badly one day this week.

A young man by the name of Osebaugh killed a snake named Woodruff last week. Woodruff had chased Osebaugh out of town. Last Friday when Osebaugh returned Woodruff undertook to whip him, when he stabbed him. Woodruff died Saturday morning.

Several young men in this vicinity have been summoned to appear before the grand jury at Hopkinsville tomorrow. This is a scheme of which I heartily approve. If two or three young men from each neighborhood in the county were taken before the grand jury and forced to report on their conduct, it would be a violation of the law, then gambling, carrying concealed weapons, and other lawless conduct would soon be diminished by half.

ROUGH AND READY.

SALUBRIA SPRINGS.

There have been a good many plumb beds burned.

A party was given at the residence of O. D. Harrison, in honor of Miss Annie Jones.

I agree with Shortfall about Pink being the reigning color at the coming convention, for the ladies especially.

Mr. Anthony Carrington, a handsome dashing young man, of New York has been visiting friends near Pembroke. From what I can learn he has received a shot in the hip.

Greenie was speaking of loving Lillies, for my part I love Johnnies best.

The wheat in this section looks very bad, owing to the excessive cold weather.

Mr. Joe. McRea has moved to the farm formerly owned by L. N. Lowery, Esq.

What has become of Sub Rosa? I understand she has resigned her newspaper correspondence and contemplates going to Haden—(ville).—

It was reported sometime ago that Maj. Hunt was tying his tobacco with blue ribbon. This is a mistake, we saw a sample of his tobacco a few days since and it looks more like it is tied with mahogany colored satin. He has the best crop of tobacco that we have seen this season, and the nicest handled crop that we ever saw.—[Adairville Sentinel.]

Pianos and Organs.

Mr. P. F. Updike, salesman for the well known music house of D. H. Baldwin and Co., of Louisville, Ky., is in our city and will remain for twenty or thirty days. Mr. Updike informs us that he has arranged for a nice room on the first floor at the Phoenix Hotel, where he intends to exhibit some of their fine pianos. A special invitation is extended to all the musical talent and those thinking of purchasing instruments, to call and see and test the pianos on exhibition. Mr. Updike is a very pleasant and agreeable gentleman and the house he represents is one of the very best in the South or West; those wishing to purchase would do well to give him a trial.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19, 1883.

The event of the last week in point of importance was the electoral count on Wednesday. Through of eight which has been accomplished, poured into all the entrances of the Capitol room on early hour in the morning, and as early as 10 o'clock every available in the galleries was occupied. The spacious area of the rotunda was packed that scarcely room to walk around was afforded, and the old hall of the House, now known as Statuary Hall, was equally crowded. At 12 o'clock, the hour fixed for the meeting of the joint convention of the two houses, the vast hall of the House and the tiers of galleries which rise above it presented an animated and interesting spectacle. The attendance of members of the House was unusually large, and there would have been no such trouble as has been experienced so often during this session of maintaining a quorum. The diplomatic gallery had a large proportion of the attaches of the Chinese and Japanese legations, and sprinkled amongst them were a great many who do not belong to the diplomatic corps, but who, however, are always members of the House or the Senate, and a prominent member of the House on the Republican side, in commenting on this, said: "Of course they don't care to see a fair count; it might make them feel badly."

Just before the hour arrived, the galleries were crowded to the utmost with ladies, wives, daughters, and friends of members, who were waiting in the corridors unable to find room in the galleries, to come in on the floor, and they rushed in pell-mell, sweeping everything before them like a pent-up water-course which has broken its confines. Seats, chairs, and the seats of members were taken possession of without formality of request. The Washington Post, who, like to himself, had objected to the admission of ladies and children, called for a division when the question was put by the Speaker, stood surveying the scene with grim satisfaction, but took good care to defend his own seat against all attacks. The dignified and serene procession of the Senators, in company with the House, headed by Vice President Wheeler leading on the arm of Secretary Bland, close behind whom came the venerable Isaac H. Hall, the faithful major-domo of the Senate, bearing as he has on so many occasions, the numerous boxes and trunks of the members, and the boxes containing the precious documents, he was in the middle of a solid phalanx of determined men armed to the teeth and ready to defend the rights of the House against all enemies. The day he was only their shield and guardian.

This is not the only respect in which the count of Wednesday differed from that of the year 1860, which was prolonged through weeks of uncertainty and excitement and terminated in a wild scene upon the floor of the House and the final shame of humiliating the wrong man. On the present occasion there was no excitement and after the count began, the proceedings were conducted in a quiet and unobtrusive manner. Secretary Bland came in fifteen minutes after the reading of the certificates began and gave his admirers an opportunity to stand at him. His conspicuous manner showed that he knew he was the observed of all observers, and was his object.

It seems pretty certain that, among other important matters to fall with the end of the session, the nomination of Stanley Matthews is one. There is no longer any doubt that the Judiciary Committee of the Senate is opposed to him. Both Senators Thurman and Edmunds are among his most earnest opponents. Mr. Matthews' ability and fitness is not questioned, but his views upon the relations of railway corporations to the people, as indicated by his course pending the Thurman bill two years ago, renders his nomination objectionable, especially at this time when a conflict is felt to be impending. It is understood here that, in addition to the other matters, the working agreement between the friends of General Garfield are moving in the same line. It is held that the new President ought to have something to say in the matter. The idea which is circulating here is that the active and energetic friends of Garfield are not only active in the matter, but are also active in the matter of the nomination of Stanley Matthews. It is held that the new President ought to have something to say in the matter. The idea which is circulating here is that the active and energetic friends of Garfield are not only active in the matter, but are also active in the matter of the nomination of Stanley Matthews.

Now that the appropriation bills are under consideration in Congress, members of both houses are expressing some curiosity as to where the money came from to pay the expenses of the extensive trip made by President Hayes and suite to the Pacific coast and back last summer and fall. The party consisted of nearly twenty persons, and the round trip covered a journey of some 10,000 miles, via Omaha, Salt Lake, San Francisco, Tacoma, and Santa Fe. The army transport, however, was not charged for the conveyance of the party, but the actual expenses of the trip are said to have been in excess of $50,000, and members of Congress seem to think that the appropriation bills for the year 1883, on account of it is not seen until with authority of law this could be done. There is talk of resolution of inquiry on the subject being introduced. It surely was an expensive jaunt, and Mr. Hayes' well-known parsimony towards a party which certainly cost him private purse was not drawn upon to pay the bills.

The New Bible-Quick Work.

The new version of the New Testament, which has been many years in course of translation, and which is unquestionably the most important literary enterprise this century has seen, is being waited for with curiosity and anxiety by hundreds of thousands. It is not generally known that the first edition of 500,000 copies has already been manufactured in England, and 100,000 copies are said to be already in New York City, not one of them permitted to be sold. They are awaiting a telegram from the authorities in England authorizing their issue.

ling their issue. The first copies can only be had at the extravagant price of $10 per copy. The Literary Revolution proposes fully to meet the demands which its army of friends are making upon it by doing probably the quickest work in book-making which has ever been accomplished. Arrangements have been made to put the entire book in type, inside of 24 hours from the time a printed copy of the English edition can be procured, and within three days at least 10,000 copies will be bound ready for delivery to waiting purchasers, and at least 5,000 copies will be manufactured every day thereafter until the demand is met. It will be printed in large, beautiful type, neatly and strongly bound in cloth, in a volume of about 500 pages, and sold at the nominal price of 30 cents. A fine edition in half Russia, gilt top, will be sold for 60 cents. Of course the popular demand will be enormous. Orders will be filled in the order in which they are received, with the exception of the and the order of the American Book Exchange, New York.
